IRANIAN ASSOCIATION OF CULTURAL STUDIES & COMMUNICATION

About Association

Iranian Association for Cultural Studies and Communication

The Iranian Association for Cultural Studies and Communication was established in 2006 by a group of researchers in the field of cultural studies and, considering the social and cultural conditions of Iranian society and existing scientific structures, tries to provide the necessary contexts for expanding knowledge related to culture and communication in Iranian society.

The goals of the founders of this association are to create the necessary contexts for the development of the epistemological structures for the development of cultural studies and communication in the scientific system of the country, to help form and strengthen the scientific community in the cultural studies and communication, to establish inter-association relations with related domestic and foreign scientific societies, to promote critical knowledge of cultural studies and communication between people in order to establish a close relationship with society and communication with the policy-making elements of the system in the fields of culture and communication.

The committees of education and research, publications, statistics and information, admission and public relations, scientific meetings and specialized departments are active in this association. The publication of the scientific quarterly "Cultural Studies and Communication" and the magazine "Society, Culture and Media" as well as holding conferences, lectures and scientific gatherings are among the most important activities of the association.
